SENDING LOVE TO DEAR HEART - BRIAN/ANDY/CHRISTIAN/DARYLE/DEBBIE/NICHOLAS/TONIA

WILLIAM II & JEAN ANNE - The year was 1953 when the days became crisp and the leaves started to turn, that Junior/Jean Anne decided not to follow the will of her mother for a big wedding. They slipped off to Westville, Oklahoma, and was married by Hoyle Turney, a CC minister, and a member of the church as witness. Brother Turney gave them his blessings on becoming one flesh as they left on their way together forever. This union has been blessed with one son, two grandsons, and one great granddaughter. Both have health problems and can't worship as they would like. Junior said that LOVE has kept them together. Even though Milliard Brewer and Junior are cousin and have Cherokee in their ancestry. Junior states the most important thing is not our blood line; it's that we are Christians. My beloved Jean Anne and I keep our faith in Jesus Christ and He keeps us keeping on day-to-day. The Hulbert church salutes thee, and may God's face shine upon thee, and bring you peace. TL: Weldon thanks for bringing Mildred down to the old home place.

EXPANDING YOUR HORIZONS

THE FACTS ARE ON OUR SIDE

by Dalton Key

Several years ago, the Atheist Association, in a paper aptly named, The Atheist, made the following charge: "Intelligent people recognize that the Jesus portrayed by the New Testament was an insane paranoiac. He suffered from delusions of persecution and from delusions of grandeur. He was so insane he considered himself either God or equal to God - as he had been taught that God was. He was the most viciously sadistic creature in all history."

From a rational point of view, one of three possibilities must be accepted: (1) Jesus was an outright, willful liar, (2) He was insane, or (3) He was and is the very Son of God.

There can be no doubt as to his claims. Jesus professed himself to be the unique, only-begotten, Son of God. (John 3:16; 10:29,30.) Such claims are either true or they are false, He either deliberately deceived others or was Himself deceived.

These facts should be helpful in settling the matter: (1) The Father, on two occasions, verbally proclaimed the deity of Jesus. (Matthew 3:17; 17:5.) (2) Jesus was given power to perform signs and miracles, power impossible for either a liar or a lunatic. (John 3:1,2.) (3) Jesus was the perfect fulfillment of over 300 Old Testament prophecies foreshadowing the divine Christ. (Luke 24:44-46.) (4) The God of heaven raised Jesus from the dead, thus forever affirming His sonship. (Romans 1:4.)

Long after the dust has settled over the graves of this world's most vocal and vociferous unbelievers, the King of Kings will be reigning still!

The atheists may shout their unholy rhetoric from the rooftops. Their numbers may grow and their message of hate may come to be seen as both plausible and politically correct. Their utter contempt for truth may even be echoed, yea trumpeted, by a like-minded press.

But the facts will forever be on our side, the side of faith.

Stonehenge Mystery Solved

Psychics and proponents of alien visitation to the earth have long used Britain's Stonehenge at Salisbury Plain in Wiltshire, England to support their claims. The basic argument is that the 80 massive bluestones weighing up to four tons each that make up the monument are not found anywhere in the area. Archeologist Timothy Darvill has reported in the magazine British Archeology that he has found the quarry from which the stones were taken. It is found in the Preseli Hills in Wales where there is a quarry containing numerous pillars just like the ones at Stonehenge. The pillars have the exact same chemical make up as the ones at Stonehenge and have clear signs of having been worked by human hands. The dating of the pillars and Stonehenge are also the same (2500 B.C.) and the moving of large stones was common at that time--by water and by simple machines over land. There is no evidence of alien or supernatural forces being involved in any of the places like Easter Island or Stonehenge. Ancient man was not stupid and accomplished many interesting feats in all areas of endeavor.

Mexican Footprints

We have had a number of questions sent to us by people who saw news articles about a new find of human footprints in Mexico that have been dated to 40,000 years ago. The first point that needs to be made here is that the footprints are across volcanic ash, which leads itself to potassium argon dating. The problem is that this dating method has many problems--leaching of the parent rock in wet climates, and a long half life making it hard to use on something like a 40,000 year old sample. The bigger question is why this is an issue. The Bible does not tell us when God created man or how old the earth is, so if humans walked in the Americas 40,000 years ago, that is not a biblical issue. It is a problem to classical anthropology which has always maintained that man came to this continent 11,000 years ago at the end of the last ice age. Like any scientific question, data will eventually resolve this anthropological issue, but it is not a biblical issue.

Jehucal Find Confounds Biblical Minimalists

There are many people who spend a great percentage of their time attempting to prove the Bible wrong. One of the problems of such an attempt is that new data keeps showing that the Bible is correct. Recently excavators in Jerusalem found a hardened clay seal with the imprint "Jehucal, son of Shelemiah, son of Shevi." Jeremiah 37:3 and 38:1-4 mention this man and describe his role. The claim that this part of the Bible was made up by writers centuries later does not stand up in the face of continued research and study.

Microchips Provide Incredible Data On Birds

One of the evidences of design in the creation is the incredible ability of many animals to migrate huge distances. The navigational abilities of many living things amaze those who study them, and now the use of microchips has given more data that is incredible. In the San Diego Union-Tribune there is some new data that challenges the imagination. A Christmas Island frigate bird that was studied flew a 26-day journey of 2,500 miles from Christmas Island in the Indian Ocean south of Jakarta to Sumatra, Borneo, and back. The world record, by the way, is a 46-day round-the-world trip by a gray-headed albatross. The more we study the design of the navigational system of these wonderful birds, the more difficult it is to believe that such systems could come about by chance.
